

DIRECT

VERSUS

INDIRECT

MH

Requires students to represent, produce, or demonstrate their learning

Most effective method of assessment when measuring achievement of learning outcomes

Examples include tests, portfolios, presentations, lab reports, projects

Captures information about students' perceptions of their learning

Provides insight into students' views of what they are learning

Examples include surveys, observations, self-reflections, journals