

irrelevancy and, in Santorum's case, his continued candidacy is problematic.

The consultant-led descent into personal attacks on the opponents' integrity, ethics and behavior reflects their personal theological principle that negative campaigning succeeds and that history supports their view.

advertisement

Advertisement

