Please provide a summary of the project and your experience.

Over the past year, the LEAD Pathways to Publishing program has become a unique and essential to supporting the academic journeys of past, present, and future LEAD students. We began the year with an assessment survey with current students and alumni gauging interest on topics for us to cover, as well as preferred modalities for our workshops. Our interest survey reports indicated both groups preferred online Zoom-based workshops rather than in-person, so we pivoted our initial plan of in-person workshops to instead organize two Zoom-based workshops:

- x An Introduction to the World of Academic Publishing Roundtable Zoom held on 11/9/23 and

The goal to have the Eastern Academy of Management Annual Conference as a unique "crowning experience" for the first year of the Pathways to Publishing Program was a successful one. We were able to provide travel support for four current students to attend and better acquaint themselves with the world of academic research
